

Morpho, Inc. Surpasses 1.5 Billion Mark in Software Licenses at 1st Quarter of 2016

Tokyo, Japan - March 14, 2016 – Morpho, Inc. (Hereinafter, “Morpho”), a global leader in software image processing solutions for mobile devices, today announced that it has surpassed 1.5 billion mark in software licenses on mobile devices at the first fiscal quarter ending in January, 2016. To this date, Morpho’s software has been highly acclaimed over the world, and the growth of its license business has kept increasing.

Morpho’s image processing software technologies include:

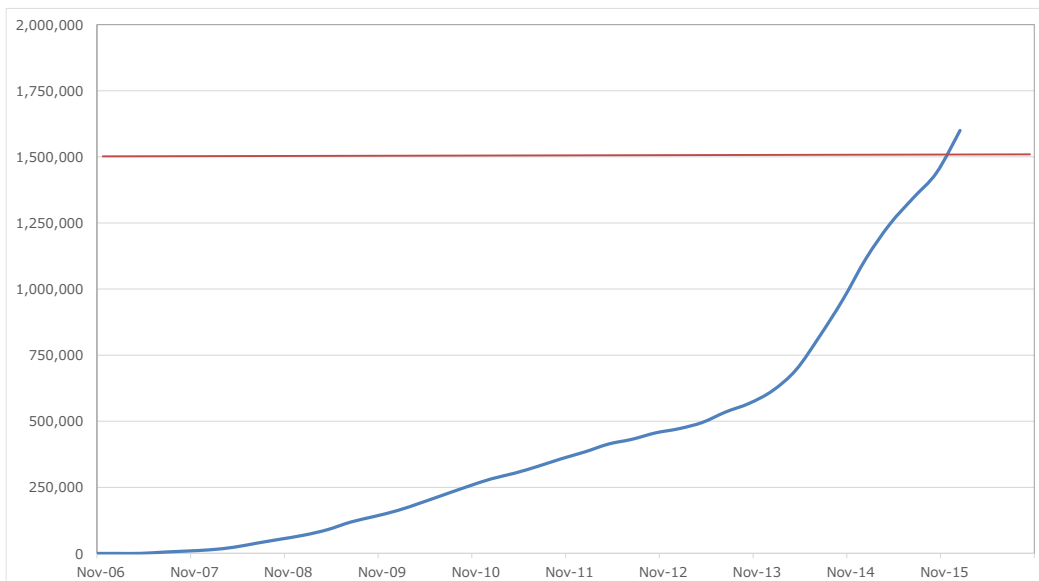

1. PhotoSolid[®], a still image stabilization technology
2. MovieSolid[®], a video image stabilization technology
3. Morpho HDR[™], a high dynamic range image synthesis technology
4. Morpho Panorama[™], a panorama image generation technology
5. Morpho Video Denoiser[™], a video noise reduction technology

While Morpho has been developing these technologies mainly for smartphones and mobile handsets, Morpho is now also committed to developing image recognition technologies using Deep Learning, for further business expansion.

“Based on our belief that Computer science shall be carried out so as to provide practical applications to the society, Morpho’s mission is not only to conduct cutting-edge researches on a purely theoretical basis, but to create cutting-edge solutions that exploit our researching results to meet existing or emerging social needs and requirements, whereby to create a better user experience.” said Masaki Hiraga, President of Morpho, Inc.,
